

Dr. Aarthi Shanmugavel, BDS, MPH

Public Health Consultant

Dr. Aarthi Shanmugavel is an active member of WFPHA (a WHO Oral Health Working Group), a highly accomplished Indian dentist with a Masters in Public Health from Pennsylvania, USA. She specializes in Community Health Education.

She was the New Jersey Governor's program evaluator for Oral Cancer screening programs in 2011-2012. She is a nominated member of International Scientific Research Honorary Society, United States. She was Advisor to the Community Partner Team for the Body and Soul Project a program by National Cancer Institute, USA. She has served as research associate in Weill Cornell University, New York, NY.

She was Associate Professor, at Padmashree Group of Institutions, India for Public Health till 2017 and now an honorary guest lecturer. She has authored internationally published research papers and has presented at many international public health conferences.

Presently she works closely with Global Child Dental Fund for development of programs focused on dental health in indigenous populations around the world.