

Sophia Thomas BDS, MPH

Dr. Sophia Thomas is a dentist and a public health professional with a focus on quantitative research methods, implementation research, health systems and policy research. She has over 5 years of experience in public health research across interdisciplinary settings. She is currently working on projects which aim to strengthen maternal health services, and serves as a volunteer at EvidenceAid COVID-19 project.